ALMA MATER

Thou wast built of dreams, Mary Baldwin, Mary Baldwin,
Woman's dreams of love and true desire:
Conqueror's dreams with passion's ardor glowing,
Caught from Truth's undying, pure white fire.
Born to live, to perish never,
To inspire to high endeavor,
To uphold that light forever,
Mary Baldwin!

Thou was built of dreams, Mary Baldwin, Mary Baldwin,
Dreams of faith, the dreams of early dawn.
Thou shalt live beyond time's farthest limit;
Dreams shall last when walls of stone are gone.
Born to live, to perish never,
To inspire to high endeavor,
To uphold that light forever,
Mary Baldwin!

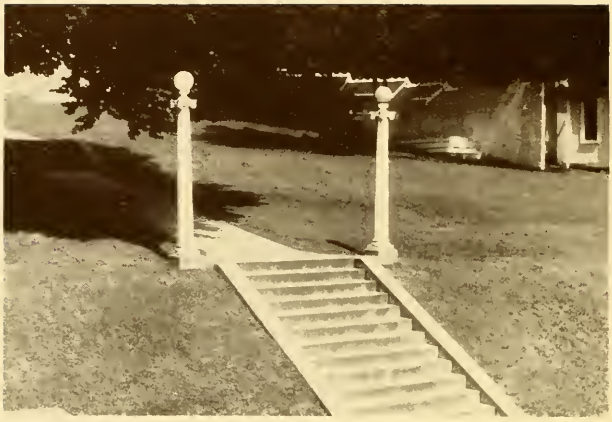
DEDICATION

In admiration of the inspiring manifestation of the beauty of spirit and character and the nobleness of ideals of a woman who gave her untiring efforts to her every undertaking, this BLUESTOCKING is reverently dedicated to the memory of Miss Mary Julia Baldwin.

FOREWORD

"There's beauty all around our paths,
if but our watchful eyes
Can trace it 'midst familiar things
and through their lowly guise."

In the preparation and compiling of the material in this annual, the staff has attempted to emphasize the element of beauty which surrounds every phase of life at Mary Baldwin. If we have succeeded in disclosing any detail, fundamentally a part of the college's unique atmosphere which has heretofore been only a sub-conscious realization, our efforts have been profitable.



Climb these steps to final glory.....Class-day dresses trail.....May Queen courts proceed in solemn file.....frantic dashes for breakfast.....late for class but steps no barrier.....counting or scrubbing favorite task for freshmen....green terraces and gleaming white dormitories.....the court and chatting students....snow slides....

VIEWS

ADMINISTRATION . . . . a cordial welcome and a genuine hospitality . . . . . stately columns emphasizing the spirit of beauty . . . . . Ham and Jam keeping watchful vigil at the steps which are the first approach to the college.

MEMORIAL . . . . . the newest dormitory commemorates the spirit of those who helped to create it . . . . . a serenity of architecture, characteristic of the campus . . . . . already old enough to be enriched with traditions.

HILLTOP.....a southern home, once a law school, now commands the campus.....Blue Ridge mountains distract the attention of students who live here.....a long climb well worth the effort.

McCLUNG.....columns standing in memoriam of old "Brick House", now remodeled.....this dormitory knew the thrill of days of war .....every student cherishes a desire to room here.

ADMINISTRATION.....around the campus and back to Administration.....in time to glimpse its nightly splendor.....small wonder goals are set, ambitions formed.

ROSE TERRACE.....this doorway welcomes students to the President's new home.....guests graciously are entertained.....each student feels at ease.

THE SENIOR INVESTITURE

October 4, 1934

THE SENIOR CLASS

End of May....trailing dresses....shepherds' crooks....white columns....soft green trees... turquoise and coral...fragrance of flowers...ole colored mammies...plantation...dreaming back over the years....unlimited lights....Saturday night suppers...the Rosemary...dates till eleven ...Investiture....caps and gowns....The Ghost Train.....shriekings and terror.....Christmas party...graduation....diplomas....organ music ...Alma Mater...good-byes...

THE SENIOR SONG

While mountains guard thee in the Shenandoah,
And loyal daughters daily look to thee,
The spool of happy days is fast unwinding,
Its colors rare, for memory's tapestry.
The tall, white columns gleaming in the sun-light,
The moon-light casting over all its spell,
The scarlet autumn, and the winter snow-flakes,
Oh, Mary Baldwin, can we say "Farewell"?

May laughter ring, and dreams be ever golden,
Along the terrace there above the street,
May friendship live like truth's white flame a-glowing
Like truth's white flame that never meets defeat.
Where'er we be, we'll cherish with fond happiness,
That golden tapestry of memory's spell,
And ever we our faith and love will pledge thee,
So, Mary Baldwin, hail and farewell.

The Seniors' Last Salute

WHEN we, the Class of '33, returned to Mary Baldwin in September to begin our Senior year, we were decidedly not the same class that, three glorious years before, had entered as Freshmen. We had lost somewhat in numbers, it is true, but we had gained infinitely in wisdom and responsibility. We came together with the realization that this was to be our fullest and loveliest year at college, and we were all looking forward to it with great expectation.

We were formally recognized as Seniors at the Investiture service held on Miss Mary Julia Baldwin's birthday, October 4, when we received our caps and gowns and sang for the first time our Senior Song. It was a proud day for us and one that none of us will easily forget. There was a party that afternoon and the day was perfectly terminated by a formal dinner given in the College dining-room in honor of the Seniors.

Later in October a perfectly grand steak-roast was given for us at Gypsy Hill Park by a grand person, Dr. Taylor, our sponsor.

"The Ghost Train" was decided upon for our Senior play, and under Miss Latimer's direction the preparations and practices began. It was hard work, but on the night of December 15, the play was presented, and it proved to be worthy of our efforts.

The next big event for us was our Christmas party for the servants which we gave in the Chapel on the night before the holidays began. In spite of the excitement running high, it gave us rather a queer feeling to realize that never again would we attend such a party at Mary Baldwin.

After Christmas vacation, which was a thrilling one for all of us, we had to face our last mid-year examinations. It was a very trying time, but we all came through with flying colors.

This last semester has been so full of things for us, that it would be impossible to include them all in this brief history. We remember such important events as the Sophomore and Junior entertainments for us, the trip of the Contemporary Thought Class to Washington, Spring Holidays, and numerous concerts, lectures, debates, plays, teas, dinners—all the things that have helped to make our last year here our very busiest one.

Then suddenly we again faced examinations—our final ones at Mary Baldwin. Once again we struggled hard and won.

After this, we were plunged into Commencement week with its many festivities. We found ourselves going through Class Day, Baccalaureate Sunday, May Day, and suddenly we were really graduating. There is so much offered to us now and yet many of us would gladly turn back to relive this last year together.

Senior Poem

Strange.....
How these tall columns stay
Smooth and whole.
Many girls have bits of them
Carried away and buried
In the warm seclusion of their hearts.

It stands here entire, unchanged, our college–
Deepness of boxwood still melting
Into sunflecked terraces;
Sunlight.....
Still lying warm and gold
Upon the campus—
.....A transient mist of laughter—
Of laughter and of tears.....
The star is there above the chapel—
And Ham and Jam are there,
Philosophers.

Now, leaving, we too carry away
Our bits of thy white columns, Mary Baldwin;
And ever in our hearts
We will enshrine them—
Straight and tall and glowing pure.

What the Roses Heard

(Some Years Hence)

Scene: Super-suite, number 1, Grande Hotel—talisman roses in abundance. Helen Patterson, concert pianist, in black satin languishing on purple taffeta chaise lounge.

Enter maid.

Madam, voila, a lady desires to speak with you.

MISS PATTERSON: You know I'm too tired to have another interview.

MAID: Ah, but, Madame, it is distressing! She has called you an ugly toad when I said that. I do not understand. So confusing! She said something about Mary Baldwin. Do you know her?

MISS PATTERSON: Mary Baldwin! Did she go there? Hurry! Bring her in. Wonder who that can be?

Enter MARJORIE STUART followed by six young ones with Dutch bobs, who are sucking striped peppermint sticks.

MARGE: "Pat"! You fox! So famous they wouldn't let me see you!

PAT: And you, "Marge," with all those dear children! It's so grand to see you again. Reminds me of those sessions at M. B. C. What's become of all of them? Every now and then I run across some of them when I'm on my tours.

MARGE: Then I suppose you've heard Helen Arthur's Wonder Girl's Orchestra and their modernistic dance tunes at the roof garden here.

PAT: Yes, and Jessie Bear is playing the organ over at Radio City.

MARGE: And "Evvy" Brown, I have to laugh. Do you know that she is sailing tonight for India—to interview Gandhi?

PAT: My land! Last time I saw her she was dancing the tango in Havana! Mary Opie stars in a movie here this week.

MARGE: Well, to go from glamour to chickens! Ellen Douglass Bush has a farm, loves dirt, and raises cocker spaniels. Thought she'd be on a newspaper. Instead, it's Rosannah Milam's column of Advice to the Lovelorn.

PAT: Say, does "Evvy" know that "Bev" Hoy is over in the East too? Yes, she and the Reverend are digging in Jerusalem now. And by the way, Virginia Weaver is teaching archaeology and Latin.

MARGE: Mercy, and Jean Clark is married to an opera singer. Such lovely children, too!

PAT: So has Lois Jane Gardner. Four red-headed little boys, and a "smoothie" with a black moustache for a husband. Mary Virginia Clark married the romantic sort, too. I met them on my last crossing to Europe. Now they're hunting lions in Africa.

MARGE: No! Do you guess she wears shorts and a helmet? Winnie is quite a sport, too. She won the amateur golf championship yesterday. Still the old Scotch in her. (Junior, stop banging on that piano. We all have ears.) I saw Isabella Spillman today. She runs that swanky teachers' agency on the Avenue. She says La Rue Prideaux will appear on the New York stage soon.

PAT: Two prominent poets from our class, too—Gertrude Messer's lovely little lyrics, and Peggy Russell's mystic poetry.

MARGE: Say, and two famous scientists. Nancy Larrick, the bacteriologist (absolutely spick and span in crispy white), and Helen Miller the great doctor.

PAT: Anne Bradford married a professor at Columbia. I saw her in Lord and Taylors the other day. What about the Martins?

MARGE: They're both married. For a while Marian was a model and Louise was an airplane hostess.—You knew that Gerda Quelch was married to that rich chewing-gum manufacturer? All the money and chewing-gum she wants. (Baby, don't hang out the window. It's a long way to the street.)

PAT: But guess what? Mary Blake gave up that Shakespearean Theatre to go to Hollywood. Now she's doing the dialogue for Mickey Mouse comedies!

MARGE: I remember her on Wednesday nights working on the paper. And Elizabeth Moody, too. She writes those snappy sports shorts on the Tribune.

PAT: Did you see that Marie Brand's horse won the derby? . . . My dear, you simply must see the elegant Parisian Gown shop that Anne Rudd has.

MARGE: I'd love to. (Oh, Junior, you clown, don't do that.) And what's Mary Bell Archer doing?

PAT: Didn't you know? She's the designer. "Marie Bellaire" is the trade name. She does make the most gorgeous creations. And Virginia House designs fine knit suits, besides her work on the Times.

MARGE: Harriet Wead (the old Swede) has her own interior decorating concern. And Martha Logan and Rosa Phipps are married and settled like I am. (Children, please stop. Yes, you can all ride all the way up and down on the elevator.)

I'll just have to be going. I know they will drive you crazy.

PAT: No, please.

MARGE: Yes, and you have a recital tonight. It has been so nice. If you run across anyone from M. B. C. tell them I said "Hello." Wish we could have a reunion soon. Goodbye!

Two Trunks and a Tale

WITH a terrific bang and jostle two wardrobe trunks were set down in the attic of McClung. After sitting next to each other for several days, they began to be a little friendly and to be a little curious about each other.

"This is my third year at Mary Baldwin," opened the tan trunk in a superior manner.

"Oh, it's my third year too," answered the brown trunk, "and I resent being knocked by these first year trunks, although I feel I should sort of tell them how things work around here."

"Yes, yesterday was a bad day when all of the Juniors and Freshmen came trooping up here to get their dresses for the tea which the Juniors gave for their sister class. It will be worse up here, though, when they begin to get ready for the Freshmen-Junior banquet and the Junior-Senior banquet. Our poor sides will be badly scraped, I'm afraid."

After these lamentations the trunks settled down to a little peace for a few days, only to be upset again in a little while.

"Oh, dear, I feel as if I had played those hockey games instead of the Juniors," groaned the brown trunk. "First I was ransacked so the Juniors could beat the Freshmen, then again when the Sophomores beat the Juniors, and that muddy day when the Juniors beat the Seniors."

"I suffered too when the Juniors cleaned us out to find money for their rings," sighed the other. "It seems that the rings are gold with an encrested carnelian seal, and I guess most of the Juniors must have gotten them."

"My whole system is upset, since I had all the first semester books and notes dumped in me. Even if they did make a Junior get on the dean's list, they only make me sag."

"Three Juniors got on the high dean's list, I heard, and nine made the low list, and there seem to be a good many sagging trunks."

"Why do they have to knock us around so? I just recovered from being searched for something to wear to Dr. Jarman's reception for the Juniors and now they are off again."

"They just put another trunk up here for one of the former Juniors who just came back, so that's why there is so much bustling around."

"And now it's time for basketball and it seems as if the whole Junior class were out for it from the number that have been up here rummaging around."

After recovering from the effects of baseball and tennis and the other spring sports, they were just getting dusty and comfortable when a new trouble came along.

"Now they have gone and put another book inside me," moaned the poor brown trunk, "and I have to hold it carefully because it's the Junior's new creation—the 1935 BLUESTOCKING. It seems to be full of innovations and has more pictures than ever before."

"We will be shaken up worse than ever after exams and finally sent on home."

"Well, we have a lot of knocks, but I think these are probably our best years --before we're broken."

Sophomore Summary

BACK to Mary Baldwin! On the day we proud Sophomores registered it was pouring rain, but our spirits were not dampened in the least for we were seeing familiar faces, exchanging summer experiences with old friends and catching glimpses of the new girls who were to be our classmates, friends and associates of the coming year. Oh! how glorious it was to be free from the shackles, the condescending looks and the scornful phrases that fell upon us as "those green Freshmen!" It was a wonderful feeling to be considered superior to over a hundred Freshmen, yet the memories of our first floundering days as Freshmen were still so fresh upon our memory that we did our best to help our "little sisters" feel more at home and as essential members of the Mary Baldwin family.

Our high hopes of avenging the mistreatments given us by the former Sophomores were completely destroyed when we were advised by the faculty to banish the Freshman initiation rites that had been the custom at Mary Baldwin. So we proceeded to draw up three restrictions upon the Freshmen which had as their goal, not punishment, but rather a recognition of the superiority of the higher classes and the faculty. These restrictions were enforced on "Sophomore Day," during which the Freshmen were barred from the Club House, were required to present us with a tea in the afternoon and a play that night, and were expected to show their respect to all others in every way.

As far as sports were concerned, all during the year the Sophomores were there with their colors flying. We had representatives in all of the major, as well as the minor, sports and were titled the champions of the Mary Baldwin hockey tournament. In scholastic work four of our classmen attained "high honors" and eight were among those on the "Dean's List." Our class has the distinction of possessing the presidents of both the debating and the art clubs.

Before Christmas the Sophomores were represented in chapel by a few dancing and tumbling acts given by several members of the class.

When we came back after Christmas we found that several of our classmates had not returned to complete the year. Campus Comments informed us that one of these joined the happy throng of married couples on February 13.

The Sophomore-Senior banquet was held in February and was one of unusual interest this year because it was held in Charlottesville and carried out the idea of "St. Valentine's Day."

In May when the time for "goodbyes" came, we realized that this year had passed too quickly, but we're all hoping that most of our classmates will return next year to carry on the spirit of the class of 1937.

Fitting Freshman Facts

YOU can't imagine how absolutely lost I felt when, during the Christmas holidays, the principal of my high school asked me to come and talk in chapel about the Freshman Class at Mary Baldwin. It was a staggering task. For a minute I was sorry that ours was the largest class the college had ever had. One hundred and twenty-five girls do too many interesting things to relate in one short talk.

I thought that first of all I should impress the student body with the vast difference that exists between a high school senior and a college freshman. I could do that by telling some of the breaks we made at the first of the year before we learned just how things were done at Mary Baldwin.

Even though I was mighty scared and humble those first few weeks, I remember how awfully kind the Juniors, our sister class, were to us. They gave us a grand tea, and for the first time since the upper classmen had come to school we really felt like somebody.

I could tell them about our initiation. They would get a few laughs out of that, I thought. (I laugh myself when I remember how disappointed the Sophomores were when they were told that old-fashioned initiations weren't "in" this season.) Of course we couldn't talk in the dining room or wear make-up, and we had to answer all phones.

In the afternoon we had to give them a tea with a floor show; so we turned upper back gallery into a typical "tough joint." We had little tables covered with funny papers, and gave our guests apple cider and doughnuts from a long table with the sign "bread line forms here." As for our play that night, I certainly wouldn't even hint that two of the members of the cast got tickled and forgot to say the lines which would have told the audience the point of the play; and that, drastic action being necessary, the president of the class had to step momentarily out of her role as off-stage noise and go before the curtains to tell those still high and very mighty Sophomores the point of it all, before they could go on.

After going through this together we thought we had better organize our forces. We chose Lucy Lewis as President, Jessie Mae Cover as Vice-President, Agnes McClung as Secretary, Mary Jane Cooke as Treasurer, and Miss Poole as our sponsor.

Maybe my former high school class-mates would like to hear about the athletics we'd gone in for. All of us were enthusiastic about hockey, although most of the Southern girls had never played before. Even though we were a little slow at getting started, we wound up with a bang when we tied the Sophomores, our greatest rivals. A little later we entered the swimming meet and took second place. I know that if anything could be won by the number of people entering we'd win it, for the thing of which we've the most is class spirit.

I planned to go on from here and tell how the Freshmen celebrated Christmas with each pair of girls taking a little mountain child and giving him the best Christmas imaginable. I thought they'd be interested to know that all in all we sent Christmas presents to sixty little children who were so far back in the mountains that Santa Claus would never have found them without our help. I wish that instead of telling them about it I could have shown them the car load of presents which the trained nurse took away.

I ended my talk by outlining the spring events, which included our participation in athletic activities and our entertainment for the Juniors.

ACTIVITIES

MARY BELL ARCHER
President of
Student Government Association

A Message from the Student President

At Mary Baldwin College the purpose of the Student Government Association is two-told: educational and functional. It prepares for living as a socially adjusted citizen after college, and it is an adventure in happy community living during college.

Accepting the goal set by the ancient Greeks in Athens: "A beautiful soul in a beautiful body," the educational service of student government lies in the development of the first—"a beautiful soul," for it bases its regime upon ideas of self-discipline and respect for oneself and others. Student government requires co-operation and loyalty, vision and ideals. Building upon the major premise that every girl is honest and trustworthy, the Student Government Association trains in the student a higher regard for duty and a greater sense of responsibility to others for one's own behaviour. In solving the problems involved in group living as they present themselves in college, every student learns a lesson in civic adjustment and usefulness. She receives training in leadership, in dependability, and in self-control. The avowed purpose of each member of the Student Government Association at Mary Baldwin College is to guarantee the welfare of the group rather than that of the individual.

Secondly, the functional contribution of student government is in promoting a full, happy, and gracious life in college. By developing a spirit of co-operation one with another, the Student Government Association becomes one of the main factors making for the healthy relationship among students at Mary Baldwin. It unites its members in a bond of service and active loyalty to the honorable traditions upon which the college is founded.

Throughout the present administration the aim of the Student Government Association has been one of growth—growth in privileges and in capacity for responsibilities and growth in student interest in the problems and opinions of undergraduates throughout the world. But the final aim of the Association has always been and will always be the cultivation of those spiritual qualities of mutual faith, love and trust which shall last "not just for time, but for eternity." The present government looks to the future for even greater success in these endeavors than has been the record of the past existence of the Student Government Association of Mary Baldwin College.

The greatest purpose which the Presidents' Forum serves in extra-curricula activities is the uniting of the leaders in the college organizations at frequent intervals. This group meets once a month at which time any problems of a president are discussed jointly and a solution attempted.

The main project of the Presidents' Forum this year was an endeavor to foster college spirit and to awaken the interest of the students to the traditions which surround Mary Baldwin. Toward this end, the Presidents' Forum has sponsored birthday dinners, after-dinner coffee and inter-collegiate exchange with other governing bodies.

BEVERLEY HOY
President of
Young Women's Christian Association

A Message from the President of the Y. W. C. A.

"Not by might nor by power, but by my spirit sayeth the Lord of Hosts."

The Young Women's Christian Association stands for a three-fold development—mental, spiritual, and social; for these three phases constitute a full radiant life of the highest caliber. It purposes to sponsor religion as indispensable for a complete life, and endeavors to point out ways to accomplish this end.

On the campus the organization embodies the ideals of Mary Baldwin, those of worthwhile, attractive, broad-minded Christian womanhood; outside the campus, it tries to promote understanding and friendship with other student bodies both in the United States and in foreign countries.

The spirit of the Y. W. is that of love and service. We always regard it a great privilege to be called upon to give aid of any kind. It is our ambition to create close bonds of friendships with all girls, so that in times of anxiety, they will turn to us, without the least hesitation, for a confidant. Throughout the whole college year we strive to help girls make adjustments to their environment and to form friendships which will be of lasting value. Our goal is a more abundant life for every girl.

The Y. W. C. A. is one of the most important organizations in the College. Its purpose is to advance the physical, social, intellectual and spiritual interest of the students, thus developing a fuller and richer life. In order to more efficiently carry on this work committees have been established dealing with each of these phases.

At the beginning of the year a beautiful Candle-light Service is held, at which time all new members are received, and during the year two services are conducted weekly, the Sunday Evening Vespers and Thursday Evening Watch. On Friday afternoon an informal group gathers in Miss Lakenan's room to discuss World Fellowship.

A great interest is taken by the Y. W. in the social life of its students and it sponsors many enjoyable affairs. But perhaps it is most concerned with the service done for others by its members; opportunity for this is afforded by the Transient Bureau, Mountain schools, the Old Ladies' Home, and the Virginia School for the Deaf and Blind.

Athletic Association

A Message from Athletic Association President

The Athletic Association of Mary Baldwin was organized in the Seminary days of 1919 taking for its aims the stimulation of an interest in sports, promotion of school spirit, and the giving to every girl an opportunity to take an active part in some form of athletics. The athletic director divided the school into two sides, naming them for the colors, White and Yellow. From each of the two groups, teams were chosen to play a series of matches during the season in basketball, baseball, golf, and hockey.

From this beginning the Athletic Association of Mary Baldwin College has grown until today it sponsors participation in practically every sport popular among women. Upon enrollment in the college, every student automatically becomes a member of the organization, initiation taking place in September at the first meeting of the Athletic Association. The organization of the Athletic Association provides for an executive council elected from the student body which includes the officers and the sport leaders. The responsibility of every leader of the council is to plan an athletic schedule which will interest the student in every sport possible.

The avowed purpose of the Association is "to plan and direct an athletic program that aims to establish in every student the habit of wholesome physical recreation."

THE ART CLUB

Jane Mather ..... President
Elizabeth Bolton ..... Secretary
Jane Dawkins ..... Treasurer

In former years, membership to the Mary Baldwin Art Club was open to everyone, but this year in order to stimulate more interest in art, membership was confined under three classifications: all students enrolled in the art classes were made members; girls who had previously taken art were made members; and girls who showed talent and were interested in the club were elected to membership.

During the year the Art Club sponsored several teas held in the newly remodeled art studio where student work was on exhibition. Monthly meetings were held during the year when puppets and scenery were discussed.

In December the Art Club entertained the Three Arts Club at a Christmas party. At this party tableaux were presented illustrating different Madonnas representative of the Gothic, Renaissance, and Modern periods.

The Art Club made the scenery for the Senior Class Play and also worked with the Dramatic Club in designing the scenery for their three one-act plays.

The Art Club presented a Chapel program giving an idea as to how the artist works in the studio.

THE MUSIC CLUB

Jean Clark ..... President
Betty Vincent ..... Vice-President
Lois Jane Gardner ..... Secretary
Barbara Johnson ..... Treasurer

The Music Club, which was founded in 1928, has proved itself to be one of the leading organizations in the college year of 1934-35. Membership in the club is open to all students interested in music. The purpose of the club is to create among its members a greater understanding of, and love for, good music. With this in mind, monthly meetings are held, the programs for which are varied and unusual, attempting to arouse the fullest appreciation of music. Among those given were: musical silhouettes; a patriotic program consisting of the national anthems, flags and costumes of the countries; a presentation of negro spirituals; studies made of the outstanding modern operas; and various other programs which exemplified the musical spirit.

In addition to the regular monthly meetings the entire Three Arts Club was entertained twice by the Music Club. On March 22 the Music Club sponsored a formal concert given at the college by the Davidson Glee Club of Davidson, North Carolina.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB

Harriet Jayne ..... President
LaRue Prideaux ..... Vice-President
Annie Belle Bradley ..... Secretary and Treasurer

The Dramatic Club, a division of the Three Arts Club, takes a prominent part in all Mary Baldwin activities. It is composed of speech and drama majors plus all those interested in the different phases of dramatic work.

This year, in February, the club presented to the students and the public, three one-act plays of different types. The first one of this group was Pink and Patches by Margaret Bland, a mountaineer play of the South; the second, Rich Man Poor Man by Bertha Burrill was a farce; and the third, The Serpent's Tooth by Essex Dane was a tragic melodrama. Besides giving a varied performance, these plays gave more members of the club opportunity to participate in acting than would be the case in one long play.

Just before Spring vacation the club presented its major production of the year—Ibsen's famous Hedda Gabler, in four acts. Although this play was written a long time ago, its ideas are essentially modern, and the symbolism and psychology found in it are interesting to watch. It was translated from the Norwegian by Edmund Gosse.

The effectiveness of the productions was improved by new gray drapes which were acquired this year and which form a pleasing background necessitating use of fewer designed sets.

THE DEBATING CLUB

Marjorie Abbey ..... President
Julia Epes ..... Secretary
Winifred Love ..... Debate Manager

The Debating Club expanded its subjective horizon when it associated itself with the International Relations Club. The former has been supported by the administration for six years; the latter was a movement which the group initiated this year. As the latter has for its purpose the enlightenment of students upon international problems and as many of the debates deal with similar questions, the merging has been most successful. The Club has Mrs. Grafton as the faculty sponsor; Marjorie Abbey is President; Julia Epes is Secretary, and Winifred Love is Debate Manager. Several intercollegiate debates were scheduled for the spring of 1935. These were as follows:

Resolved: That the federal government should own and control all facilities for the manufacture of arms and ammunition. The affirmative side taken by Mary Baldwin, was upheld by Marjorie Abbey and Nancy Wallace. The negative was upheld by Hampden-Sydney. This same question was used with Westhampton taking the affirmative and Mary Baldwin the negative. A second question: Resolved: That the nations should prohibit the international shipment of arms and ammunitions, was argued, Mary Baldwin upholding the affirmative and William and Mary the negative.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

Martha Logan ..... President
Lois Jane Gardner ..... Vice-President
Winifred Love ..... Secretary and Treasurer

The Psychology Club, since it was founded in 1920, has aimed to arouse and maintain an interest in all aspects of mental life and the broader application of psychology. Membership is restricted to advanced students in psychology and education, and to those students in General Psychology who attain a high scholastic standing.

The president, Martha Logan, with the aid of Dr. Smoke, the sponsor, arranged for this past year several lectures and experiments, one of which was a small experiment on character reading from photographs. The results showed that photographs are not the most excellent means of character delineation, and that some people can read character more readily from photographs than can others.

Mrs. Davidson, from the Virginia State School for the Deaf and Blind, spoke at one meeting on "Education of the Deaf." At another meeting, Dr. Wayne Dennis, of the University of Virginia, spoke on "Instincts."

The club endeavors to bring speakers of note in the field of psychology to address the members on various phases of psychological study, research and problems, making it possible for the students to obtain a broader view of the subject.

THE GLEE CLUB

Betty Vincent ..... President
Nancy Stanard ..... Vice-President
Annie Belle Bradley ..... Secretary and Treasurer
Freda Hewes ..... Librarian

The Mary Baldwin Glee Club met with much success during the year 1934-35 in fulfilling its purpose of opening a broader field of musical appreciation, not only for its members but also for others. The organization became familiar with compositions ranging from the classic composers, such as Wagner and Mendelssohn, to music of the modern school with its many interpretations.

During the fall, the club was called upon to participate in chapel and church activities, the climax of which came at the Christmas Vesper service when a very impressive program was rendered.

The months of February, March, and April saw extensive preparation and practice for the Spring season. The annual Spring concert was given and the singing of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" took place at Easter vespers.

As a fitting ending to an interesting and varied year of singing, the Glee Club furnished the music for the Baccalaureate service and joined in giving the Commencement concert.

BETTY BENNETT ..... Secretary and Treasurer
RAQUEL FAJARDO ..... Program Chairman

El Circulo Espanol—the Spanish Circle—was first organized in 1920 and since then has held a prominent position on the campus.

Its aim was to arouse interest in Spanish countries and in the Spanish language. This year the Club has been active in its monthly meetings at which the atmosphere of a social gathering has been combined with the presentation of interesting information. The interest of the club has been concentrated this year on the South American countries, and as a special project they are planning to add as many books as possible to the shelves in the library pertaining to the Spanish department. Dr. Shedd has already presented several unusually fine volumes bound in leather. The members of the club, directed by Raquel Fajardo as chairman of the Program Committee, have studied the history, the social life and customs, and the literature of Spanish-American countries.

A new member of the faculty this year and a valuable addition to the college, Dr. Shedd, is sponsor of the Spanish Club. He is assisted by Raquel Fajardo who is a native of Porto Rico.

THE FRENCH CLUB

Evelyn Brown ..... President
Imogen Bird ..... Vice-President
Ellen Douglass Bush ..... Secretary
Janie Stevens ..... Treasurer

Le Cercle Français serves as a means of bringing together socially the members of the advanced French classes, that they may discuss all phases of France and its people of interest to students of the French language. Meetings are held once a month, with varied programs followed by general conversation.

This year the members discussed the provinces of France at a very interesting meeting, and at others, French music, poetry, and drama were presented. The Christmas meeting was an exceptionally memorable one. Quite in accordance to French customs at this season of the year, each member placed her shoe before the fireplace so it could be filled with small gifts which were exchanged by the girls. After carrying out this tradition the members sang Christmas carols.

Mlle. Flansburgh, the club's sponsor, is always invaluable with her suggestions as to programs and her general interest, and Jeannie Richaud of Nice, France, as an honorary member, has been an added inspiration in giving the true atmosphere and interpretation of her country and its customs.

PHI GAMMA ALPHA

Helen LaVorst Miller ..... President
Kathryn Dyer ..... Vice-President
Nancy Larrick ..... Secretary and Treasurer

Phi Gamma Alpha, science honor society, was organized at Mary Baldwin April 4, 1934, with the purposes of stimulating and developing interest in the natural sciences among the students; of encouraging scientific research; and of enabling students to keep informed as to the most recent discoveries in the field of science today.

The qualifications for admission to Phi Gamma Alpha are: scholarship, a scientific attitude, and approval of candidate by society sponsors. This society has as its honorary members and sponsors, Dr. E. Juanita Greer, head of the science department, and Mr. John B. Daffin, head of the physics department. A large per cent of Phi Gamma Alpha members are also members of the Virginia Academy of Science and the president is a member of the American Genetic Association, the American Chemical Society and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

This year the society visited the Virginia State laboratories, attended a lecture of Dr. Harold C. Urey, 1935 Nobel Prize winner in chemistry, and sponsored several lectures at the college.

The roll call of members is as follows:

1934	1935	1936	1937

THE DAY STUDENT CLUB

Virginia Weaver ..... President
Lucilla White ..... Vice-President
Frances Wilson ..... Secretary
Dorothy Bear ..... Treasurer

Since 1929 the Day Student Club has been an active organization on the campus. Miss Fannie Strauss, who was once a day student at Mary Baldwin, sponsors the club.

The purpose of the organization is to foster the interests of the day students and to bring them in closer contact with the students who live at the college. They have a representative on the Student Council, and take part in all the activities of college life. This year three new rooms were initiated for the students' use. They were formally opened in October when the Club's sponsor entertained the members at a picnic supper served in the new rooms. They have been in constant use and are indeed appreciated.

The Club has regular monthly meetings, and sponsors several social events during the year. This year the day students entertained the Faculty at a supper in the lodge at Crafton's Park on February 20, and gave a tea in honor of the girls graduating from the local high schools in May.

THE GRANDDAUGHTERS' CLUB

Dorothy Bear ..... Chairman

Students whose mothers or grandmothers were once Mary Baldwin girls compose the group known as the Granddaughters' Club. The members of the Club take pride in the knowledge that their mothers and grandmothers helped to build this institution of which they themselves are a part. And out of their pride in this heritage comes their understanding of the things Mary Baldwin has stood for, and their determination to preserve and carry on these same ideals and traditions which have since the beginning distinguished Mary Baldwin.

During the annual celebration of Miss Mary Baldwin's birthday in October, the Granddaughters were the guests of the alumnæ at a tea served at the Alumnæ Club House. At the unveiling of Mr. King's portrait in December, the Club was also invited to attend the impressive ceremony.

The Granddaughters are ably led by Miss Juanita Greer who has willingly offered her services to the club for several years. Although the membership is restricted the Club has an unusual number of members, and the Granddaughters appreciate the recognition of the significant place it holds in the life of Mary Baldwin today.

THE LITTLE SISTERS' CLUB

Nancy Wallace ..... Chairman

The Little Sisters' Club has, for many years, been a traditional club on the campus. Although it is comparatively small and rather inactive in comparison to many of the larger organizations, it continues to hold a place of prestige. It seems to be filled with a binding spirit that Mary Baldwin aims to maintain among all of her students.

Miss Abbie McFarland lends her graciousness and willingness to the club as its sponsor. Under her guidance, the Little Sisters endeavor to fulfill their original aims and purposes.

There have been several meetings of the club this year. Early in the fall, the Little Sisters, together with several other clubs, received an invitation to be present at a tea given by the alumnæ. This pleasant social gathering was occasioned by Miss Baldwin's birthday.

The Little Sisters were again honored when in December, they were asked to be present at the unveiling of Mr. King's portrait. This was indeed a notable affair.

A Spring meeting was held and the Little Sisters also had a part in the Commencement exercises, particularly Alumnæ Day.

THE RED HEAD CLUB

Jean Hebbard ..... Chairman

Under the guidance of its sponsor, Mr. William Wayt King, the Red Head Club was able to reorganize and become an active organization on the campus this year. Considering the rigid restrictions of the club to only those with red hair, the membership was quite remarkable.

Even though the meetings are not regularly scheduled, the club has met several times. In the early fall, the "red heads" went en masse to the home of Mr. King, where he entertained informally. He gave them an interesting account of the founding of the club and its progress since that time.

The day after Thanksgiving, the club was entertained again by its sponsor and Mrs. King with a most delicious turkey dinner given at the Parish house of Trinity Church.

In December, it was considered a great privilege to be invited to attend the unveiling of Mr. King's portrait, which now holds such an important place in the college parlor. And the club concludes its year's activities with a picnic in the Spring.

Although the organization will always have a limited membership, it is to be regretted that many more cannot have the privilege of joining this traditional club of Mary Baldwin and be able to enjoy the fine association and interest of Mr. King.

STUDENT TREASURER

Isabella Spillman

The Student Officials occupy a more prominent part in the activities of the college than is generally realized. The marshals lead all academic processionals and serve as ushers at every college presentation. The chief marshal is elected by the entire student body, and the others by the individual classes. The duties of the student treasurer consist in collecting the student budget and re-apportioning it to the various organizations.

THIS portrait of Mr. William Wayt King, business manager of the Seminary from 1889 to 1923 and of the college until 1930, was painted for the college this year. As sponsor of one of the clubs Mr. King is well known to the present student body. The portrait has been placed in the Red Room where it is a constant reminder of his loyalty, devotion and service—a fitting tribute to this friend of the college.

IF college annuals had mascots, no more appropriate a one could be adopted than Beauty, which was Miss Mary Julia Baldwin's dog. His spirit has been commemorated in the portrait which hangs in the Red Room.

JANET DUTHIE

In spite of wind and weather, the hockey teams proved to be enthusiastic as well as swift. Great rivalry existed between the classes. The season progressed with one tied score after another. The Freshmen showed fine spirit and turned out a squad of twenty players which gave the other teams cause for concern. They showed their merit by being defeated only once by the Junior team and tying the Sophomores and Seniors. The deciding game of the season between the Juniors and the Sophomores proved to be a most spectacular one ending with a victory for the Sophomores. The most outstanding game and the one which the players doubtless enjoyed most, was that between the Seniors and the Juniors. In this memorable game, merriment ran high and good feeling abounded and the Seniors, fine sports that they have always been, went down to a striking defeat. At the end of the season an honorary varsity was chosen from the class squads.

Interest in hockey was sustained during the season by a trip to Randolph-Macon Woman's College to the Virginia Field Hockey Convention. The delegates brought back many new and helpful ideas concerning the game.

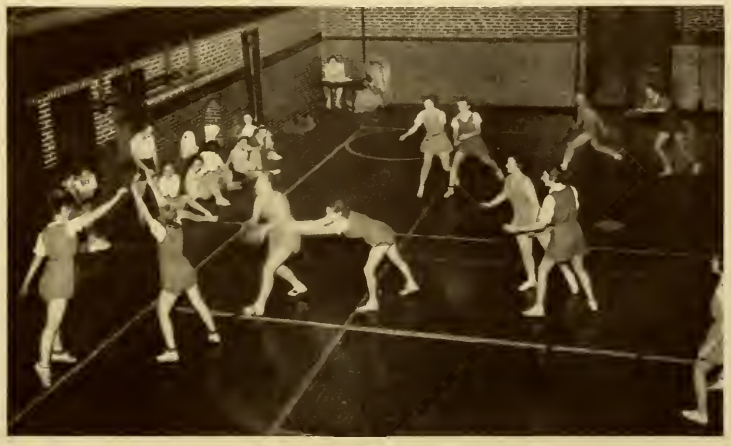
Basketball Leader

During exams and for six weeks afterwards the basketball court was the main attraction as far as class activity in sports was concerned. In the practices it was difficult to determine which would prove to be the strongest team. The Freshman squad was large and lively, having many veteran players from prep schools, while the Seniors put forth the same team that had played last year. The Juniors with several new players put up a desperate struggle to hold their ground but the Sophomores who, early in the season, did not look very formidable to say the least, came out for the games and won the cup through their fine team work.

The games, which were played in "double headers" were truly scenes never to be forgotten. The gallery in the gym was crowded to capacity for almost every game, the Faculty also attending. The Juniors came en masse to every game and Bronchi, their mascot, rooted along with them so vigorously that he lost an eye, appearing thereafter with a patch. And so another season was ended and the basketball score book closed for another year.



BASEBALL

Helen Miller
Baseball Leader

Baseball, that good old American sport, is played at Mary Baldwin by the faculty as well as the students with great spirit. Although Spring is the regular season for baseball, the annual picnic at Crafton Park usually finds the faculty and students hard at play with bat and ball. The supremacy of the faculty is due to the number of men on their team and their home runs succeed in causing the score to rise.

The inter-class games are played during the last month of the college year. A varsity is chosen from the class squads representing the eleven best players of baseball. This team usually challenges the mighty faculty team to a final game. This contest has proved to be an exhibition of the sportsmanship of our leaders in the academic field and of the spirit of the game which exists between them and the students.

TRACK

Janis Holley
Track Leader

With the arrival of the first good weather in spring, the cinder track calls many athletes into activity. The hurdles are popular with many Freshman because of their newness. High jumping, broadjumping, the dash and javelin are other events in which our daughters of Atalanta participate. More individual competition is carried on in this sport than in any other. Throughout the spring season students in gym classes and those particularly interested in track develop their technique in preparation for Field Day which is the termination of the season. This is the day when all the classes meet to prove their prowess on the field. Recognition is given to the individuals gaining the highest number of points and a cup to the class which has won the most events. This occasion is one at which the classes show their spirit and support the athletes representing them.

TENNIS

The wham of a tennis ball awakens the students of Hill Top some mornings at the break of day. The tennis courts are the battle-grounds of individual and inter-class tournaments Fall and Spring. These tournaments give the opportunity to all those who strive to excel in this graceful and vigorous game.

GOLF

This year the interest in golf was increased by the lessons in technique which were available through professional instruction. The Fairway Tavern offers a beautiful course where enthusiastic golfers may play. During the winter, the driving range in the gym makes possible practice in form. Spring finds many eager to get out-of-doors with their clubs.

RIDING

The Riding Club, headed by Jean Bellingrath, president, conducts horseback riding throughout the year. Fall and Spring find many equestriennes enjoying long rides through the country surrounding Staunton. The Horse Show, every May, is a great attraction and the Banquet following this is the high-light of the season.

SWIMMING

Those who enjoy swimming are fortunate in having accessible both the college pool and that of the Staunton Y. M. C. A. Throughout the winter many students recreate in swimming. During the Fall, an Inter-Class tournament was held, at which the Sophomores triumphed and the Freshmen were close runners-up.

ARCHERY

Archery, the sport which requires skill, strength and poise is another minor sport which is included in our program. The range out at the hockey field is adequately set up and students, particularly those in gym classes, participate.

BADMINTON

Badminton which was introduced at the college during the winter claims an important place in the recreational life of the students. This old English game has been very successfully revived in many colleges and has become part of our sport program.

HIKING

Hiking is a sport here which many ambitious athletes enjoy. In the Fall, a supper hike is always an outstanding feature for the group which participates in this sport. The hikers have found many delightful paths and old roads which have offered enjoyable jaunts.

PING-PONG

Ping-Pong is largely responsible for the popularity of the lounge. Everyday one hears the ping of balls, but never so much as during exams, when from morning until night games are carried on. Ping-Pong is an attraction for everyone and is truly an invigorating indoor sport.

THE MONOGRAM CLUB

The Monogram Club is an honorary club organized for the outstanding athletes in college. Membership in this club is obtained by earning 650 points in the athletic program. Every year at the Athletic Association Banquet held in May, the Athletic Council names those girls who have been accepted into the club, and presents them with an M. B. C. monogram. Recognition by this club is considered the highest athletic award in the college. Those girls who earn monograms prove their merit as ambitious athletes who lead a well-rounded life in college athletics.

PUBLICATIONS

EXPLANATION OF THEME

The great pyramids of Egypt have enjoyed a lasting interest through the ages, partly because of their constructional wonder, and partly because of their beauty of simplicity in design. When this annual was in its embryo, each member of the staff carried in her mind a desire to create a volume which would endure, not only because of the sentiment attached to such a record, but also because of the book itself. Looking about us, it was quite apparent that we were facing an institution which itself has known a long life, and upon further reflection we found that each phase of student life has evolved from an extensive background. As the causes for this permanency were considered, one outstanding characteristic possessed by each of the subjects concerned was evident. That quality was beauty—so the staff has chosen to emphasize the part played by beauty in college life.

Taking the book section by section, beauty was stressed in the view pages through appreciation of architectural splendor; the class division emphasized organization, uniformity; the features, beauty of character qualities; athletics, the beauty of grace and publications, the harmony of unity and co-operation. The division plates, which are the work of students, have made use of a relatively new and artistic medium.

No attempt has been made to put this theme into a definite, tangible form, for the staff prefers to have this quality, so characteristic of Mary Baldwin, expressed by means of greatest simplicity and design. It is in the arrangement of the pages and in the material offered that the theme has unostentatiously been employed.

THE BLUESTOCKING

The Bluestocking, the college annual, is edited each year by the Junior Class. The Editor, Assistant Editor, Business Manager and Assistant Business Manager are elected by the student body the preceding Spring of the year that the book is published. Then, in the Fall, these members of the staff choose the rest of the members. Miss Strauss, our faculty sponsor, advises and aids the staff with the experience she has gained through her association with the publication for many years. Without her unfailing interest and support, we would not vouch for our results.

The purpose of the staff is that of providing each student with a memory book of the year's activities in all the varied phases of Mary Baldwin life. Naturally, it is impossible for us to set down on a printed page all of the happy experiences we have had with intimate friends here, but it is our hope that as time goes on and you turn over the leaves of this book, we will have set down enough material here for you to recall to mind those more intangible and personal experiences each of you has lived through and treasured.

CAMPUS COMMENTS

When the Campus Comments staff returned to college this year, they were elated to learn that, during the summer the paper had received First Honor Rating by the National Scholastic Press Association. With that inspiration they set to work to publish an even better paper. Changes were made in the type and the headlines. A new heading was designed. Numerous cuts were used. More six-page issues were published. In fact, Mary Baldwin's paper became more like a daily newspaper. The efforts were rewarded when Campus Comments tied for first place in Class A with the Virginia Tech, V. P. I.'s publication.

The Miscellany is Mary Baldwin's literary magazine. It attempts to encourage an interest in literature that is both appreciative and creative. Material is selected from work done in the various English classes in contemporary poetry and in composition and from contributions made by any interested students.

The Editor-in-Chief and the Business Manager are elected by the student body; the Editor, with the help of the faculty advisors selects the other members of the staff.

This year a series of "literary half-hours" which consisted of informal discussions on modern books and authors, was begun, with the idea of stimulating a desire for more knowledge of contemporary writings.

Three issues of the magazine were published this year: one at the Christmas holidays, one at Spring vacation, and one at Commencement.

ART IN CLOTHES

Just as the famous Artists create successful pictures—so the famous designers continue to create successful styles—each day brings new ideas into the world of fashions—and each day brings these new fashions to the

PALAIS ROYAL

We do not guess—we do not mistake a fad for a fashion—we bow low to the great god—GOOD TASTE—and our clothes are selected with an accurate knowledge of for whom, for when, and for where.

PALAIS ROYAL clothes are the unusual kind—Beautiful—Smart—Individual in style,—Always reflecting good taste—NEVER overdone.

The ART of being "Well Dressed" is always assured when wearing Palais Royal Clothes

PLAY SAFE AND BE SATISFIED

The garments you value are worth insurance against incorrect methods of cleaning. The National Association of Dyers and Cleaners, together with the Federal Trade Commission, has set certain standards of quality and handling that protect you the customer.

The methods have been whole-heartedly endorsed by WOODWARD'S, and every rule is a standard practice in OUR plant. We believe they reflect a desire to meet the responsibility you EXPECT of your cleaner. Your problems are OUR problems.
